Railroad wrecks are again becoming numerous.

Ballard and Ellis will make a good working team in the Territorial legislature.

Next year both Ohio and New York will have governors of the same name but of different politics.

"Bull" Andrews is now busily engaged in figuring how much money he will have to spend to defeat Money.

Winter may put a temporary end to the little difficulty that is now in progress between the Jap and the Russian.

It's time for the Artesia Advocate to throw another series of choice fits. Jerry Simpson has been invited to make speeches in the doubtful states of the east.—Portales Herald.

That the fifteenth legislative district is just about as solidly Democratic as can be desired is proven by the election returns of two years ago. These returns make good reading, so we reproduce them:

	Dem.	Rep.
Chaves,	918	318
Eddy,	463	183
Lincoln,	695	726

Total, 2,076 1,227

Majority in district for Democratic candidate, 849.

THE CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

Mayor Hinkle informs us that he has as yet received no official communication in any way which with warrant the beginning of the library building on the part of the city. The mayor and council are ready to do whatever may be necessary toward the beginning of this building. They have promptly passed all kinds of ordinances and resolutions in accordance with the Carnegie modus operandi, and are ready and willing to push the work on. There seems to be much unnecessary delay in this matter. If the money is ready and waiting as has been given out in the newspaper columns, why should not the enterprise be taking on tangible form. Will some one who is in possession of the desired information inform a waiting public that is already becoming a little impatient.

THE NATIONAL OUTLOOK.

Six weeks from today is election day. Six weeks is not a long time as time goes, but in a national campaign it is long enough to make and unmake Presidents. It may be said that the Presidential campaign is just now beginning. Neither side has a cinch. The work done in the next six weeks will determine the yet problematic query as to what man shall be inaugurated on the 4th of next March. The heavy odds on Roosevelt's election which were being offered a few weeks ago have gradually fallen. From bets of two to one they have decreased to eight to ten. The factional differences that a few weeks ago in the state of New York seemed to threaten the ticket have happily disappeared. New York is naturally a Democratic state and with a united party there is no doubt but it will be carried by the Democrats in November. Republicans are beginning to admit that New York is lost to them, and during the next six weeks we may expect the battle to be transferred to states that are really doubtful.

TWO LITTLE BOYS.

In all American verse there is nothing so touchingly tender nor a sentiment so sympathetically expressed as are the lines of Eugene Field beginning with the words,—

"The little toy dog is all covered with dust,
But sturdy and staunch he stands."

Had Field written nothing else but "Little Boy Blue" his fame would have been established by the authorship of this classic.

Yet the lines written by James Montague, entitled "Little Bit of a Baby Boy," though not yet so well known, will in literary merit and tenderness and delicacy of expression, take rank along with Field's famous poem. A Little Bit of a Boy is certainly an ideal playmate for Little Boy Blue. Montague's lines are as follows:

"LITTLE bit of a baby boy—
Never could have his way.
Never a gleam or a glint of joy,
Life a long rainy day.
Father always too busy to tell
The stories he loved to hear;
No one to comfort him when he fell,
No one to see the tear.

Always so healthy, his mother said—
Couldn't be sick if he tried;
Just had to see he was washed and fed,

And punish him when he cried.
Only the angels in heaven knew
The ache in that little breast—
Away up there in the sky of blue
They knew him and loved him best.
And so when a cloud came sailing low,

Came out of that sky above,
The little fellow was ready to go—
For oh, how he longed for love."
